

I drive truck over-the-road, and XM satellite keeps me going. It's a safety issue, since I no longer have to continuously scan for strong stations. Also, being able to dial in continuous weather and traffic, I am better able to plan my trips through unfamiliar cities. Barring such services is not a good idea.